The University of Nebraska (the “University”) is committed to supporting an inclusive campus by embracing opportunities to positively impact our faculty, staff, and students’ lives.

To further support our diversity efforts, the University includes optional questions about chosen names and pronouns on admission applications. Also, the University allows for self-selection by all enrolled students of their chosen name, gender identity, and pronouns in the campus dashboard. Faculty and staff can also update this information using Firefly, the employee self-service portal located at <https://firefly.nebraska.edu/irj/portal>. Helping all students, faculty, and staff feel comfortable and succeed is very important to the University.
